City Council Honors 2006 Employee of the Year

FALLS CHURCH, VA. - The City Council recognized Human Resources Generalist Beverly Reich as the City of Falls Church 2006 Employee of the Year on Monday, April 9, 2007.

For the past 10 years, Reich has demonstrated her commitment to public service by serving the needs of all City employees. She educates employees about benefit programs, organizes employee recognition events, and does much more with a tireless enthusiasm. For those reasons, the Employee Review Board selected Reich as the 2006 Employee of the Year.

“We have many wonderful employees here at the City who are genuinely dedicated to their work. I am deeply honored to be singled out as Employee of the Year,” said Reich. “I try to make sure every employee is well informed of the City’s policies and understands their benefits options. It’s exciting to be able to assist in offering the best possible benefits for our employees.”

Receptions were held in Reich’s honor on Monday, April 9 followed by an official award presentation that evening at the City Council meeting.

The citizen-based Employee Review Board selects an Employee of the Year each year from nominations submitted by City employees and citizens. The recipient is selected for their involvement in an accomplishment of outstanding worth in advancing and improving public service in the City of Falls Church that produces outcomes, such as higher morale or acts beyond the call of duty, and goes above and beyond the nominee’s normal duties.
